

ARE YOU AN ENTREPRENEUR OR AN INTRAPRENEUR?

Write down the number on the scale that most represents you for each characteristic. Add them up to see if you are a born entrepreneur, or whether the life of an intrapreneur would suit you best.

Cautious	1	2	3	4	5	Risk taker
People pleaser	1	2	3	4	5	Competitive
Manage people	1	2	3	4	5	Fly solo
Team player	1	2	3	4	5	Work alone
Hate disappointment	1	2	3	4	5	Can handle failure
Accept other people's decisions	1	2	3	4	5	Won't take 'NO' for an answer
Problem solver	1	2	3	4	5	Hate altercation
Guidelines	1	2	3	4	5	Autonomy
Job security	1	2	3	4	5	Uncertainty is fine
Structure	1	2	3	4	5	Freedom
Reasoned	1	2	3	4	5	Intuitive
Support of others	1	2	3	4	5	Make all decisions
Work for someone	1	2	3	4	5	Be my own boss
Care more about success	1	2	3	4	5	Care more about money
Specialise	1	2	3	4	5	Diversify
Access to resources	1	2	3	4	5	Self finance
Dress smartly for work	1	2	3	4	5	Wear what I like

17 – 39 points

The life of an intrapreneur would suit you. It would give you the freedom to explore your creativity, stretch your imagination and learn more skills. Exchanging ideas as a part of a supportive team is important to you, as is the security of a regular pay cheque. Find a company or a boss that encourages and embraces intrapreneurship.

40 – 62 points

You could be an entrepreneur, but at this time you are not quite ready to commit to that move. Being an intrapreneur will allow you some autonomy and give you access to the resources you need to develop your ideas and hone your creative skills. An intrapreneurship will give you recognition, expand your network and open the door to future opportunities.

63 – 85 points

You have the mindset and the drive of an entrepreneur. You don't mind taking risks and you are capable and confident of flying solo. You would probably feel restricted as an intrapreneur working for somebody else. If you have an idea for your own startup, project or a venture – go for it!